As such, there are no shortage of classes, seminars and books written on the subject. However, there are few designed for the corporate consultant that are not aligned with some proprietary system, traditional academic classrooms, or author's speculation. These tend to be either inaccessible, questionable in their content, or specifically aligned with the producers' interests. So where can the Communication trainers and consultants go to focus on fundamental touchstone research and practices? The Handbook of Communication Training is a powerful template, and first of its kind, for communication practitioners and academicians who wish to strengthen their professional capabilities. It also acts as a guide and standard for consumers and clients of these services. The chapters within are an outgrowth of the National Communication Association's Training & Development Division's desire to provide guidance, structure, and support for members and non-members alike. It is specifically targeted at those pursuing best practices regarding communication consulting, coaching, teaching and training. The 7 Best Practices presented in this book represent capabilities that are foundational to the effective transfer of communication promotion and skill enhancement. As such, these practices, and supporting chapters, should appeal to novice and experts alike.

As seen on Good Morning America and successfully adopted by thousands of subscribers, this easy-to-use system will help slash any household budget Now more than ever, people are desperate to save money without scrimping on every little purchase or sacrificing their lifestyle. Like most Americans, stay-at-home moms Chrissy Pate and Kristin McKee spent the lion's share of their budgets on what they assumed to be static costs such as groceries and utilities. But when using traditional couponing and cheapskate guides didn't help their budgets shrink by a dime, Pate and McKee decided to come up with their own way to save. Within a few months, their household expenses dropped by more than half—from spending $800 each per month to less than $350! only a few years after developing their "be centsable" system, Pate and McKee have helped thousands of subscribers save money without spending hours finding and cutting coupons, or giving up "extras" like travel and entertainment. In this prescriptive guide, these authors show how anyone can save thousands of dollars on cleaning supplies, pet care, toys, travel, and most importantly, groceries—without giving up healthy foods, favorite products, or the occasional splurge.

The findings of this study highlight the importance of food safety in dining areas. The consumer survey gives us a better understanding of how consumers perceive food safety in market-style restaurants, which will allow for development of more effective interventions to reduce food safety risk. While no pathogens were detected on food contact and non-contact surfaces, the high level of samples that tested positive for human pathogen indicators show that there is the potential for contamination of surfaces in market-style restaurants. Early work on removal rates with a novel microfiber towel indicate that greater than three log pathogen removal from stainless steel and acrylic surfaces, and removal rates average between 41% and 59%. Do you spend countless hours when house cleaning? Learn to make better use of your time and cut your time in half by learning the skills of Speed Cleaning. With just some simple changes in habits and preparations you can easily clean your house it and keep it clean without a lot of work.

Most people think they know what speed cleaning is all about. They may have a vague idea that it involves using a vacuum cleaner on their carpets or floors. That is where the misconceptions begin. Vacuuming is a far more complex process than most people realize. A good guide to speed cleaning will address every possible issue and give you tips for making the job go faster. Speed cleaning is not the same thing as carpet cleaning, at least not in the common imagination. It is, however, important to realize that difference as well. Speed cleaning should not be the single homework you do only after your floors are thoroughly dusted. It does enough to just make your house look cleaner, but that is it. Attempting to speed clean your entire house with just a vacuum and a broom will leave your floors behind in worse shape than you started out. There is no way you will accomplish that without a guide to speed cleaning, even if you do a spring cleaning every year or so. A guide to speed cleaning, especially one that deals with your carpets, floors, or other areas with thick furniture, will save you time, frustration, and money. A guide to speed cleaning saves you time because you will know exactly how to handle each different task. The first tip for speed cleaning is being aware of what is going on in your home when you are vacuuming. You might be cleaning your dining room and thinking you don't need to clean the kitchen. The truth is, you should still clean the dining room before you move on to the kitchen. It takes twice as much time to properly wipe down a dining room table than it does to wipe down a kitchen counter. The dining room has more stuff on it is harder to reach all the corners of the table to dust and clean it. You will also find yourself with more dust in your vacuum than in your car. If you have to clean between tasks you will want to use a guide to speed cleaning to shorten your time spent between tasks. For example you can use a guide to clean out your garage between tasks. You can speed up your house cleaning tasks by removing as much clutter as possible. The less clutter you remove between tasks, the less time it will take you to get done. Removing clutter will also save time since you won't have to lug around a heavy vacuum cleaner to clear out the rooms between tasks.
